PRISON BOARD MEETING.

To Inquire Into the System in Force in Other Counties.

There was a meeting of the prison board yesterday at which it was decided to send a committee to visit the county prisons at Pottsville and Sunbury and ascertain the manner in which prisoners are employed in these jails. The committee was appointed by Judge Archbold, who presided over the meeting and consists of the three county commissioners and Warden Simpson.

It was decided to put some of the prisoners at work at once grading the plot of land owned by the county in the rear of the county jail. There is a sewer running through the plot that needs repairing and this, too, will be done by the prisoners as soon as the city engineer gives the lines.

It is not likely that much work will be done on the roads by the prisoners this fall.

THE ELM PARK CIRCLE.

It Held a Very Interesting Meeting Last Night.

The programme rendered at the meeting of the Chautauque circle of the Elm Park church last evening was a satisfactory compound of scientific socialism, expansion and imperialism.

C. F. Whittemore presented an argumentative paper on "Expansion," which was thoughtful and judicious. "The Spanish Character" was the subject of A. E. Sholl's assignment, and his treatment of the theme was cordially received.

G. E. Switzer's reading of "Mark Antony's Oration Over the Dead Body of Julius Caesar," was a trifling, his rendition of the lines showing a creditable conception of their dramatic significance. Chapters eight and ten of the "Strength and Weakness of Socialism," which the circle is now studying, were succinctly reviewed by Miss E. G. Olmstead in a paper of exceptional vigor and polish. "The Progress of Socialism Since 1882" was interestingly described by Miss Kate Poits.

In the absence of the president, W. J. Douglas, who has charge of the society's literary schedule for the present month, occupied the chair. Thomas H. Dale was elected first vice president.

THE MADONNA IN ART.

Second Lecture of the Art Course Delivered Before a Large Audience in St. Luke's Parish Hall.

The second lecture in the Van Laer art course was largely attended at St. Luke's Parish hall last evening.

The subject last night was "The Madonna in Art" and as many of the pictures being altar pieces are of panel shape, their extreme height caused their upper portion to frequently assume grotesque forms when commingled with the chaste but somewhat ornate decorations that were prominent in the Parish hall. However, so beautiful were some of the representations that the audience would gladly have beheld the lovely familiar creations hanging from the end of a string rather than not to have looked upon them at all.

Professor Van Laer began his talk by speaking of the influences which grew into Madonna worship, incidentally stating that in some of those representations of the Mother and Child there is something that makes the love of the beautiful which is felt by the beholder of whatever religious faith he may be.

There was a desire in the middle ages to interpose the Virgin's beneficence and purity between an offended deity and the poorer sinner.

In the early days women offered to the Virgin meal and honey, as had been offered by the Pagans to Ceres. Leo III destroyed the images and forbade votive offerings, hence no good example of the art of that day exists.

In the ninth century the custom of worship was resumed and it was doubtless spread by the crusaders.

Throughout his talk the speaker quoted effective bits from Vasari and Mrs. Jameson, relating several of the pictures shown. These were given as illustrations of the life of Mary. It could have been desired that a Cimabue Madonna, the Mater Dolorosa of Guido Reni, the beautiful Burgomaster Madonna of Holbein, or perhaps the radiant Madonna of the Star might have been added to the list, as no one was anxious to leave the hall, so deep was the interest in the lecture, but so many exquisite reproductions were given that but few could have been well spared, unless, perhaps, the imperfect photographs of the Louvre Murillos or the Gozzoli.

It was a pleasure to see represented the Pre-Raphaelite School in Dante Gabriel Rossetti's two Madonnas and the exquisite reproduction of the Burne-Jones "Annunciation."

Giotto was represented by "The Flight into Egypt," Correggio's "Bunny Notti" and the lovely gallery Albrecht Durer's "Adoration of the Magi" in the Uffizi, where Balthasar is most prominent, were among those shown. A Madonna by Martin Schongauer illustrated early German art.

There were, of course, the famous Madonnas of Raphael, the Sistine with her wistful, tender face, the lovely Madonna Della Sedia, the "Madonna in Grand Duca," "The Madonna of the Gold Finch" and "La Belle Jardinere," "The Pearl of the Prado," etc.

Of Michel there were several examples, notably the beautiful "Conception in the Louvre," and "The Holy Family" and the "Madonna of the Fish." Duccio, Perugino, Bellini, Lillan, Rubens, Giorgione and Veronese were represented. There was an exquisite specimen of Botticelli's work, a sumptuous one by Filippo Lippi, another by Del Sarto and a beautiful Leonardo with golden hair and gentle face. Modern pictures were given by the representations of Gabriel Max, a lovely Boudouin and also one by George De Forest Brush, of this country.

DIDN'T REMOVE THE PIN.

Operation Performed on Two-year-old Andrew Lopatka.

An operation was performed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at the Lackawanna hospital on Andrew Lopatka, the two-year old boy taken to the hospital last week. About six weeks ago the little fellow swallowed a shawl pin about three inches long with a black enamel head. As soon as the boy was brought to the hospital he was put under the X-rays and a picture was taken, showing the location of the pin.

Yesterday morning a consultation was held by the physicians of the hospital staff and it was decided to perform the operation known as tracheotomy. Accordingly at 10 o'clock an operation was performed under the charge of Drs. Connell, Fulton, Gates and Frey, assisted by the house doctors, Dr. Weisman and Dr. Weaver. By the operation the point of the pin was found to be imbedded in the bronchial tube.

The pin could not be dislodged without increasing the distress to such a terrible nature that death would probably have resulted, and therefore it was allowed to remain where it was. The pin has been in the tube for over six weeks, and at that time has buried itself in a new surrounding by tissue.

The case was a very delicate one, as the child was in a very weak condition when brought to the hospital and the utmost care was required in conducting the operation. The boy is getting along very well and it is probable that another operation may be attempted, but it is doubtful if the pin can be removed.

OLD FORGE STRIKE HAS BEEN SETTLED

CONFERENCE LAST NIGHT BETWEEN COMPANY AND MEN.

Terms of Agreement Not Definitely Known but It Is Understood Concessions Were Made on Both Sides. Strike Will Be Declared Off Today and Workmen Will Take Their Old Places as Soon as Practicable. Usual Minor Disturbances Were Not Wanting Yesterday.

A satisfactory agreement was reached last night between Jermyn & Company and their striking miners at Old Forge, and unless some hitch occurs in the interim the strike will be formally declared off today.

Yesterday Superintendent Jermyn sent word to the strikers that the company would hold a conference with the men and asked that they appoint a committee to meet with him today. John E. Morgans, president of the local union of the United Mine Workers, called a special meeting for last evening and submitted the communication from Superintendent Jermyn. A committee consisting of Frank Apple, William Shapolski, Stephen Knox, William Evans and John Edwards was appointed to confer with Mr. Jermyn and at once set out to see him, it having been learned that he was at the mine.

DIFFICULTIES ADJUSTED.

At 10:30 o'clock the committee and Superintendent Jermyn came together and after a brief business-like conference the difficulties were adjusted. When the conference was concluded it was announced that the mine would be opened up to the old employees today and that as soon as the tools could be transferred the men working at other places would take their old jobs. The terms of the agreement were not made public, but it is understood the company and men both made slight concessions.

As late as 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the company was not looking forward to an immediate settlement of the strike and at 7 o'clock the strikers were still discussing ways and means of continuing their fight.

When a Tribune reporter left No. 1 colliery early last evening men were erecting poles about the mine shaft breaker on which to support electric lights, and fresh supplies were being brought in for the deputies at such of the workmen as live at the mine.

MORGAN WAS DOUBTFUL.

At 6:30 o'clock, when the strikers were assembling for their meeting, President Morgan in a lengthy interview with a Tribune reporter, spoke very dubiously of a speedy ending of the strike. The action of the deputies in arresting Frank Apple, chairman of the last committee that went to confer with Mr. Jermyn, made it a matter of doubt if the strikers would accede to the request for another conference.

"We had had conference after conference," said Mr. Morgans, "and nothing has come out of them. When the company is ready to grant the men's demands they can say so and the strike will be over."

What brought about the sudden change in the existing conditions could not be learned.

Yesterday witnessed a repetition of the incidents which have been of daily occurrence since the beginning of last week, when the effort to operate the No. 1 colliery with the aid of deputies was undertaken.

If anything, the women were even more aggressive than usual. Fully one hundred of them assembled on the commons being east of the colliery at early morning and gave to the deputies and the workmen their scornful and their usual greeting of jeers and opprobrious names.

WOMEN WERE ACTIVE.

One posse of deputies who had an Italian in charge was surrounded and an effort made to take their man from them and drive him back. The women went so far as to push past the deputies and lay hold of the Italian and it was not until some hard raps from the deputies' clubs were applied to the women's knuckles that they let go their grasp upon the thoroughly terrified "blackleg." As it was, the fellow's clothes were torn and his face scratched.

Two Italians who are taking the strikers' places were assaulted at their homes in Barbertown Sunday night. Both were badly beaten and one of them had his scalp cut open with a blow from a club.

A posse of deputies went down into Barbertown yesterday morning looking for the assaultants and were met by a big crowd of women who had been out looking for "blacklegs." They began to hoot the deputies and call them names and finally a girl in the crowd threw a stone. Deputy Sheriff H. P. Forber, who had charge of the posse, detected the girl in the act and went over to her advised her not to do that sort of thing again or she would get herself into trouble. There was no more stone throwing.

GIRLS PLEADED WITH HIM.

A number of girls, most of them relatives of the strikers, surrounded one of the young deputies yesterday and tried to shame him out of his job. He told them he had "nothin' agin' no-

ALL WILL PATRONIZE THE NEW COAL ROAD

INDIVIDUAL OPERATORS ACT UPON MR. FULLER'S REPORTS.

At a Special Meeting of the Association Held Yesterday the Independent Line to New York Is Abandoned and the Members Agree to Ship Their Coal by the New Route to Tidewater—Rising Vote of Thanks to Mr. Fuller for His Successful Efforts.

There is now every assurance that the new Delaware Valley and Kingston road will not only be a certainty, but a success.

At a special meeting of the Independent Operators' association in the office of E. R. Sturges, yesterday afternoon, the scheme to build the New York, Wyoming and Western road from Scranton to New York was abandoned and the members of the association signed contracts to ship their coal over the Erie and Wyoming, Delaware Valley and Hudson routes.

The meeting was called by E. L. Fuller, chairman of the executive committee, appointed by the association to determine upon and report a plan for securing an outlet to New York that would relieve the individual operators from the heavy discrimination of the carrying companies. There was a full attendance of the operators and they came prepared to act, having, of course, been informed beforehand of what the committee had to present.

NEW ROUTE TO TIDEWATER.

Mr. Fuller told of the combination that had been effected to form a new route to tidewater and the low prices at which the new company would carry coal from Scranton to tidewater. Then, as chairman of the executive committee, he recommended that the individual operators' road be abandoned and the patronage of the association transferred to the new combination road.

The association not only adopted the recommendation but tendered a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Fuller for planning and successfully carrying out a plan to secure the relief for which the association has zealously labored during the past several years. Afterwards the association repaired in a body to the Scranton club and celebrated the event with a luncheon.

It was decided to keep the organization of the New York, Wyoming and Western company intact, so that its franchise may be available for the construction of a road or system of spurs connecting the Erie and Wyoming with the collieries owned by the individual operators.

A prominent individual operator who has been among the foremost workers for a new outlet to tidewater that gives cheaper rates to the independent operators, said at the close of the meeting:

OPERATORS' VIEWS.

"The operators feel highly gratified at the successful outcome of their efforts and are particularly grateful to Mr. Fuller for the successful and very thorough manner in which he performed the big task put upon him. It might as well be known, though, that the New York, Wyoming and Western line to tidewater was never given up for a moment and had not Mr. Fuller found this better way out of our dilemma our own road would be under construction by the first of the year."

"While we were apparently lying idle there was, in fact, a vast amount of quiet work being done towards the realization of the independent road. Surveys were going on, the work of acquiring a right of way and water front was being looked after and a close eye was constantly kept on the market for materials. We have 7,000 tons of rails now on hand and, as we secured them at a bargain even when steel was cheap, we are in a position to help in the cheap constructing of the new road."

This means that for one fare plus one dollar the Lackawanna railroad will sell on November 21, 1899, from Mt. Morris, Ithaca, Oswego, Utica, and all intermediate points, tickets to New York and return, permitting the holder to spend five or ten days in the metropolis.

This week of November 21 will be one of the easiest and most interesting of the entire winter. One of the greatest football games of the year, that between Columbia college and the Carlisle Indians, will be played at Manhattan Field on November 25. Columbia college recently defeated Yale on the gridiron. Its eleven is the only aggregation of football players outside of the "Big Four" that ever scored against Yale. The Carlisle Indians have defeated some of the best college football teams in the United States.

At the theater this week will be a particularly brilliant one. Among their attractions will be the following: May Irwin in "Sister Mary"; Julia Arthur in "More than Queen"; the Alice Nelson opera company in "The Singing Girl"; Julia Barlowe in "Barbara Frothingham"; Virginia Harned in "The Song of the Sword"; John Drew in "The Tyranny of Tears"; Mrs. Fiske in "Becky Sharp"; Richard Mansfield, William Gillette, the Kendals, Annie Russell, Miss Held, William H. Crane and others.

The city itself will be an attraction as it has already done its holiday dress. The tickets at one fare plus one dollar for the round trip will be sold on November 21, and must be used for the going journey at or before midnight of that date. They may be used for the return journey on any train leaving New York before midnight on November 26.

RAILROAD FROM LOPEZ.

Attorney George M. Watson, of This City, Is One of the Persons Interested in It.

Attorney George M. Watson has under way the organization of a company to build a railroad from Lopez, Sullivan county, to the top of the mountain overlooking Forkton, in Wyoming county, where, according to the promoter's statement, there is a veritable bonanza in building stone and aluminum clay shale for brick and pottery purposes.

In boring for coal some time ago an eight foot vein of the finest kind of clay was discovered and it was at once bought up by the company of which S. Edson Clark is president and John B. Fessett, secretary. Two thousand acres of land in which the deposit extended were purchased.

Mr. Watson was looking over the ground with a view of interesting himself in the development of clay and became impressed with the idea that the stone on the mountain was of a superior quality and had experts investigate. As he anticipated, they reported it to be of an exceptionally fine quality and plentiful, averaging a thickness of thirty-six feet over most of the tract. Specimens of the stone were sent to experts in Philadelphia who agreed at once to take a million and half cubic feet of a year of the different qualities if it could be delivered to him at prices ranging from 50 cents to $1.25 per cubic foot.

Mr. Watson figures it out that this can be easily done, that this one order of stone will pay the operating expenses of the railroad, the interest on the bond and a nice dividend to the stockholders. This will leave the road free to make a net profit on the business of the clay company and any other stone business that the stone company may be able to do.

Notice of the intention to apply for a charter for the road has been published. It will be about ten miles in length and will feed the Harvey's Lake branch of the Lehigh Valley.

Will Talk on Matters of Interest to Stationary Engineers.

Herbert E. Stone, of Harvard university, the president of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, will be in this city as the guest of the Scranton Engineers association and will talk on matters of interest to stationary engineers tonight at 8 o'clock, in the Albright Library hall.

The National Association of Stationary Engineers is an association formed seventeen years ago for the purpose of advancing its members by the dissemination of technical knowledge; its meetings are given up entirely to the discussion of topical engineering questions, the reading of papers, and delivery of lectures. These meetings are open to the public. The constitution of this association prohibits any of its members from taking part in strikes or similar labor troubles, and forbids any member to affiliate in any way whatsoever with any organization the object of which is the adoption of a fixed standard of wages.

A strict adherence to the constitution has given the association a membership of 14,000; its relations with employers have always and invariably been of the most cordial nature, and its members are in charge of the largest part of the important steam plants of the United States.
